2013 Estill County Property Valuation Administrator Report on 2013 Level of Assessment with 2012 Comparison

This report is an attempt to show the assessment totals by category and their rates by district with 2012 comparisons. It will also show types of increases and decreases that contribute to the total property valuation of the county excluding franchise valuation.

The report is to clarify some misstatements and/or misquotes reported recently in local newspapers. Read all numbers closely and if you have any questions, please call me personally and I will try to answer any concerns you may have.

- (1) There was not a $10,000,000 loss of assessment in the city of Irvine. It was due to a misinterpretation of a report from the PVA office that led to that statement.
- (2) I've never stated that it was inevitable that tax rates would go up in the city of Irvine.

I was recently invited to an Irvine city council meeting by two councilment o address the council on the city assessment level and I was also asked to calculate for them different rates to show the amounts each rate would generate in revenue for the city. I agreed to help with the calculations.

Facts about the PVA office

The PVA does not set, suggest or assist in the setting of tax rates or the amount you pay on your assessment. Tax rates are set by boards, councils, fiscal courts or legislators of the different taxing districts. They can choose to raise, lower or leave as is, it is their choice. The PVA does not assess cars or boats, tangible property or oil and minerals. They are state assessed.

The PVA has three basic responsibilites:

County

- (1) To maintain a property information /mapping office.
- (2) To locate new property in their county.
- (3) To appraise real estate at its 100% market value for tax purposes with oversight from the state.

Quick Analysis of Valuation

Well maintained houses in good neighborhoods are selling. Land valuation is stable with an increase in farm land prices. Houses at the very low or high end are slow sellers, due to loan restrictions on possible purchasers of those properties. Foreclosure properties and empty houses are still having a negative effect on prices. There is a lack of new property in both city limits, and there is a deterioration of commercial property within both cities.
