

Santa doesn't mind having his picture made with a young girl.

The Sparks sisters were delighted to wait for the parade and Santa, but their little cousin was cold and tired of waiting.

Angel Spicer waited in her UK Santa hat.

Or with the Mayor of Ravenna.

Photo right: Mrs. Santa hands suckers to children when they stop to visit Santa. The brothers belong to Tim and Michelle Osborne.

Sharon Niece helped with the Elizabeth Witt Christmas party, but she took time out to love on the little ones.

Dr. James Hill played in the bell choir, one of the groups which provided entertainment during the Arts and Crafts Fair.

Gene and Leona Abney of Patsey exhibited for their first time at the Estill Arts and Crafts Fair. They sold handmade ink pens and wood products. The fair had probably its best attendance in recent years.

Darrell Ashley of Ravenna was another first time exhibitor. Darrell sells water color paintings while his wife makes jewelry.

Girl Scouts of Estill County braved the cold weather Saturday. They wore hand-made old fashioned bonnets on their float in the parade.

The Irvine Free Methodist Church wrapped gifts for needy kids in our community this past Saturday. The gifts will be delivered by Santa and his elves before Christmas. Pictured below are all the gifts that were wrapped, and posing with the pictures is Christina Strickland, daughter of Debbie and Chris Carlyle, the pastor at the church.
