Re-Election Polls

A political pollster is cruising up Needmore Hollow and sees a young boy standing beside the road. So, he pulls alongside and says, "Say, how big is President Obama around here?"

"I'd say about 5 feet, 2 inches," replies the boy. "That wasn't really what I was asking," replies the pollster, "But, I'm curious as to how you came up with your answer."

"Well," replies the boy. "My dad is about 6 feet tall, and every night, he puts his hand up to his chin and says, 'I've had it up to here with President Obama!'"

Shopping For Supper

A cannibal and his father are looking for supper. They are watching people walk down the trail. The son suggests one woman but the father rejects, saying that she is too plump. Later on, the son asks about another, but again the father refuses, saying that she's too skinny. After a while the son points out a very attractive woman. "Sure, son," the father replies. "We'll take her home to keep and eat your mother for supper!"

Jokes

An inmate moves to a new prison. After everyone settles in for the night he hears someone yell out, "44." Suddenly, the entire block erupts into laughter. The laughter has barely died down when another voice yells out, "16." Once again the entire block erupts into laughter. Later, a third voice yells out, "62," and once again spontaneous laughter follows.

"What's that all about," he asks his cell mate? "Well," the cell mate replies. "Some of us have been in here so long that we were telling the same jokes over and over; so, we decided to just give them a number. That way, when we call out a number, everybody knows what joke goes with that number and laughs about it."

This goes on for weeks, with numbers being called out every night and the prisoners laughing loudly after each number is called. Finally, one night, after about the fourth joke, the cell mate taps the new inmate on the shoulder and says, "It's your turn."

The new inmate just pulls a number out of his head and yells, "86." Suddenly, the entire block erupts into laughter like he has never heard before. Even his cell mate is laughing so hard that he is rolling on the floor.

After a long time the laughter dies down and the cell mate has finally regained his composure, so the new inmate asks, "Why is everyone laughing so hard?"

"We'd never heard that one before!"

Promises, Promises

A little girl asks her father, "Daddy? Do all Fairy Tales begin with 'Once Upon A Time?'"

He replies, "No, mostly it's 'If Elected I Promise . . .'"

Watch My Car

A man jumps out of his car in downtown Washington, D.C. He sees a well-dressed man standing near the curb and asks, "Listen, I'm only going to be in here a few minutes. Could you watch my car while I run into this store?"

"What?" the man huffs, "Don't you realize that I am one of the most powerful politicians in government?"

"Well, no, I didn't realize that," replies the man. "But listen, I'm in a hurry; so, I going to have to trust you anyway."

Give Me Your Money!

Late one night, a mugger wearing a ski mask jumps into the path of a well-dressed man and sticks a gun in his ribs. "Give me your money," he demands.

Indignant, the affluent man replies, "Hey, watch it - I'm a United States Congressman!"

"In that case," replies the mugger, "Give me MY money."

Presidential Credentials

A redneck calls up the White House and says, "I'd like to become the next President of the United States."

The receptionist answers, "What are you, an idiot?" The redneck replies, "Why, is it required?"

Helping The Homeless

A businessman and a politician are walking down the street when they come upon a homeless person. The businessman gives them his business card and tells them to come down to his factory to apply for a job. He then takes twenty dollars out of his pocket and hands it to the homeless person.

The politician is very impressed; so, when they come upon another homeless person, he decides he is going to help. He walks over to the homeless person and gives them directions to the welfare office. He then takes fifty dollars out of the businessman's pocket and hands it to the homeless person.

I Hear You

Aunt Esmerelda finally goes to the doctor to have her hearing problem checked out. She is sitting in the waiting room opposite a young boy who is chewing gum and staring vacantly into space. After some time, Esmerelda jumps up, goes over to the boy and says, "I know what you're saying about me, and I'm going to tell your mother every word of it!"

IPD Police Beat

Officer John Sturniolo served a bench warrant from Clark District Court on Darin Harrison, 20, of Oak Valley Court on Sunday. The warrant says that Harrison was found guilty in July 2013 for alcohol intoxication. The bench warrant states that Harrison failed to appear on 2/26/14 to pay fees of $233. His bail was set at $233.

Sturniolo charged Harrison with possession of marijuana and possession of a controlled substance third, both misdemeanor charges. He said when Harrison was arrested on the above charge, he had 1 1/2 xanax and a half marijuana cigarette.

Philip Cox, 38, of Hudson Avenue, Irvine, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident on Monday morning and failure of the owner to maintain insurance. Officer Sturniolo said he saw Cox's vehicle strike the bumper of another vehicle while he was attempting to park. He added that Cox left the scene and parked on the other side of the courthouse in an attempt to escape. The officer had Cox's vehicle towed and placed a hold on it until Cox obtains proper insurance.

Daniel R. Carpenter, 37, of Old Landing road was charged early Sunday morning for driving under the influence/drugs. Officer Sturniolo said he was called to Shell mart on the Richmond

Road because a driver had passed out in the parking lot in his vehicle. He said he awakened Carpenter who failed field sobriety tests.

Four warrants of arrest were served Friday, April 4 by Officer Karl Rifenbark on individuals who were indicted recently by an Estill County Grand Jury.

Benny L. Baker, 39, of Locomotive Street, Irvine, was indicted for theft of property mislaid or delivered by mistake and fraudulent use of a credit card.

Abraham J. Martin, 36, no address given, was indicted for alcohol intoxication, two counts of third degree assault upon a police officer, possession of marijuana, and menacing.

James F. Brantley, 38, of Sixth Street, Ravenna, was indicted for first degree burglary, theft by unlawful taking or disposition, and possession of a controlled substance, third degree.

Orville E. Puckett, 45, of N. Plum Street, Irvine was indicted for trafficking in a controlled substance, first degree, possession of a controlled substance, first and third degrees, tampering with physical evidence, and drug paraphernalia.

Police Chief Brad Smith served a bench warrant Thursday, April 3 on Scott Camden of Short Street, Irvine for an indictment on a first degree assault charge.

Clarifications

- Joseph Glenn Marcum wishes to state that he is NOT the Joseph Marcum listed in last week's court news for not wearing a seat belt.
- Jesse Wise of Furnace Junction, Ravenna wishes to state that he is NOT the "Jesse" referred to in a news article in last week's Estill Tribune.

Man arrested over gun

Smith said Deputy Jailer Chad Smith searched Cromer and found a clear baggie of marijuana in Cromer's underwear. The police chief stated there was between a quarter to a half ounce of marijuana in the baggie.

Cromer was charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon, menacing, possession of marijuana, and promoting contraband, first degree. He was lodged in the Estill County Detention Center.

Cromer was released from custody on April 2 on a $10,000 surety bond. He will be arraigned on the charges in Estill District Court on April 16.

Captain Adrian McKinney assisted with the investigation.
