

Wanderings from the Woods & Water
by Jay Bicknell

If you plan on getting a guide, be sure to check out all the guides in the area. Find out what all is included in the guide fee. Check references on the guides. Once you have settled on a guide, keep in touch with them often before the trip. A good guide will work hard to make your trip a success. A bad guide will take your money!

Once you have got the logistics lined out, it's time to make sure you've got the right gear. The right gear on a trip can make the difference in happiness or misery! Think about all the weather conditions you might face and pack for it! Think of everything you might need that will keep you happy, healthy, and safe on your big trip.

Plan, plan, and plan some more before the big trip.

Until next week, get out and enjoy God's creation!

The Big Trip

Do you have a big hunting or fishing trip coming up? Is it a guided or Do It Yourself (DIY)? Is the trip in-state or out of state?

The success of the big trip starts with planning and more planning, way in advance. Doing your homework will make that trip of a lifetime, a trip of a lifetime. The saying goes, those fail to plan, plan to fail.

I have been on a guided fishing trip in South Carolina and a guided duck hunt in Arkansas. They both turned out super successful! It was because of great planning on the part of people I went with. They did the homework, called the guides, and we put crappie in the boat and ducks in the freezer.

I am currently in the process of planning a rifle elk hunt in Colorado for 2015. It all started back in April by putting in for a preference point so I can get drawn in 2015. The hunt will be a DIY, but we are still calling and pricing guides just to see the cost and maybe get a good tip or two. We know the area we will be hunting, so we have already started studying aerial photos and topo maps.

So, if you want to go on a big trip, start planning well before the trip. Check to see what you need to do to make it happen, such as preference points. If it's out of state get on the phone with the state's fish and wildlife service and find out as much info that is possible. Make sure to know all the rules the state requires.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Do not envy a violent man or choose any of his ways, for the Lord detests a perverse man but takes the upright into his confidence.

Birding BITS BY Cindy Brook
Glorious Water
It's July, and it's hot. Birds aren't the only things that need water to drink. I have seen other creatures with wings, like bees and dragonflies, sipping water from birdbaths. So keep those birdbaths clean and filled with fresh water. It'll keep everyone happy and cool.
