Maudie's Naughties

Bragging Rights

Four guys are drinking in a bar, bragging about their children. "My son," the first one says, "Started out washing cars at a dealership, but now owns the dealership and just gave one of his friends four new cars of her choice!"

"My son," says the second, "Started out serving lunch in a real estate office, but now owns the real estate office and just gave one of his friends a new mansion!"

"My son," says the third, "Started out sweeping the floors at the Stock Exchange, but now practically owns the Stock Exchange and just gave one of his friends a $1,000,000 in stock."

"Well," the fourth guy says, "My daughter's turned out to be a bit of a disappointment. She works at a restaurant for minimum wage and tips, but she has SEVERAL boyfriends. On the plus side, between them, they gave her four cars, a mansion, and a million dollars in stock for her birthday."

Bank Guard

Lem: "I got fired from my job as a bank guard."

Clem: "That's awful. What happened?"

Lem: "Well a thief came in to rob the bank. I drew my gun. I told him that if he took one more step, I'd let him have it."

Clem: "What did the thief do then?"

Lem: "He took one more step . . . so I let him have it . . . I never liked guns much anyhow!"

The Checkup

A senior couple goes to the doctor for the husband's annual checkup. The husband is hard of hearing so when the doctor calls his name, He says, "What did he say?" to his wife.

His wife says, "It's your turn" and the man goes in to be examined.

When the doctor finishes, they come out to the waiting room and the doctor explains to the wife that except for a slight hearing problem the man seems to be in good shape.

He than says to the man that he would now need a urine sample and a stool sample.

The man turns to his wife and says "What did he say?"

The wife says, "Give him your under shorts."

The Bagpiper

As a bagpiper, I play many gigs. Recently I was asked by a funeral director to play at a graveside service for a homeless man. He had no family or friends, so the service was to be at a pauper's cemetery in the Kentucky back-country.

As I was not familiar with the backwoods, I got lost, and being a typical man I didn't stop for directions. I finally arrived an hour late and saw the funeral guy had evidently gone and the hearse was nowhere in sight. There were only the diggers and crew left and they were eating lunch. I felt badly and apologized to the men for being late.

I went to the side of the grave and looked down and the vault lid was already in place. I didn't know what else to do, so I started to play. The workers put down their lunches and began to gather around. I played out my heart and soul for this man with no family and friends. I played like I've never played before for this homeless man. And as I played 'Amazing Grace,' the workers began to weep. They wept, I wept, we all wept together. When I finished I packed up my bagpipes and started for my car. Though my head hung low, my heart was full.

As I was opening the door to my car, I heard one of the worker say, "I never seen nothin' like that before and I've been putting in septic tanks for twenty years."

Call Home

A woman is in bed with her husband's best friend when the phone rings. She answers the phone while he quietly listens to one side of the conversation.

"Hello? Oh, hi. I'm so glad that you called. Really? That's wonderful. I am so happy for you. That sounds terrific. Great! Thanks. Okay. Bye bye."

She hangs up the telephone, and he asks, "Who was that?"

"Oh," she replies, "That was my husband telling me all about the wonderful time he's having on his fishing trip with you."

The Therapist

A noted therapist realizes that people often lie about the frequency of their romantic encounters. So he devises a test to tell for certain by looking at a person's smile.

To prove his theory, he fills up an auditorium with people, and goes down the line, asking each person to smile. Using the size of the person's smile, the therapist is able to guess accurately until he comes to the last man in line, an elderly gentleman, who is grinning from ear to ear.

"Twice a day," the therapist guesses, but is surprised when the man says no. "Once a day, then?" Again the answer is no.

"Twice a week?" "No." "Twice a month?" "No." The man finally says yes when the doctor gets to "once a year."

The therapist is angry that his theory isn't working, and asks the elderly gentleman, "Then, what the heck are you so happy about?"

The gent answers, "Tonight's the night!"

Legal & Financial Planning

If you or someone you know is affected by Alzheimer's disease or dementia, the time for legal and financial planning is now. This workshop is for anyone who would like to know more about what legal and financial issues to consider and how to put plans in place. Learn what legal decisions must be made, and how to use those decisions to protect and provide the best care possible for the person with dementia. Explore the options available to pay for care, where to find additional resources, and how to make the best financial choices for both the person with dementia and the caregiver. Guest speakers will be Carolyn Kenton Bluegrass Elderlaw and Loretta Henderson of the Bluegrass Area Agency on Aging. Sponsored by the Alzheimer's Association. The program will be held on Wednesday, September 24th from 2-4:30 p.m. at the Madison County Public Library located at 507 West Main Street, Richmond. Registration is required. Please contact 1-800-272-3900 or e-mail infokyo-in@alz.org.
