

Estill County Board of Education December Mt. Movers

Shavonna Hatton was chosen as the Certified Mountain Mover for December. She was selected by her peers for her dedication to her students, her creativity, and strong leadership ability.

David Rice is the Classified Mountain Mover for December. He was recognized by his peers for his contributions to Estill County Schools and for his positive attitude.

The Estill County Extension Service was selected as the December Community Mountain Mover by the Estill County Board of Education. The service was selected because of their positive relationship and its lasting effect on the students of Estill County.

Photos courtesy of the Estill County Board of Education

Girl Scouts of Estill County were recognized by the Estill Fiscal Court at their meeting on Monday, December 16, 2019. Melissa Goolman is the troop leader. Bottom photo: Troop #7182 helped to decorate the courthouse for the holiday season. Right photo: Troop #661 prepared 75 meals for shut-ins of Estill and Madison counties on Thanksgiving. The troop leader is Emma Day, who also conducts an after-school scouting program weekly.

Law enforcement officers and their families attending the December 8 event at the Estill County Fairbarn are pictured above. Many of the gifts presented to the officers had been donated to by businesses. In addition to local law enforcement, Fritz, Irvine's K-9 officer, Kentucky State troopers and Brian Brooks of Fish and Wildlife were recognized for their work. Top photo and Delores Rowland photo courtesy of Alice Tuttle.

Deputy Sheriff Chris Coffey and his wife, Timberlee, were recognized by the Body of Christ December 8.

Ravenna Mayor Estine Tipton was presented with an award from Secretary of State Allison Lundergan Grimes.

Delores Rowland, Estill Tribune editor, has received an award from Grimes. Rowland has reported the news for over 37 years in Estill County.