Bad Day At The Tables

Bambi is having a bad day on the roulette table. Down to her last $100, completely exasperated, she cries, "What rotten luck! What in the world should I do now?"

"Why don't you play your age?" says Mitzi, as she walks away to play the slots. A few minutes later Mitzi hears a great commotion at the table. Thinking Bambi may have won big, she walks back over to find Bambi lying limp on the floor. "What happened?" asks Mitzi. "Is she alright?"

"I don't know," says the table operator. "She put all her money on 29... then 36 came up and she hit the floor!"

Lawyer - Good News and Bad News

"I have some good news and some bad news."

"Well, give me the bad news first."

"The DNA tests showed that it was your blood they found all over the crime scene."

"Oh no! I'm ruined! What's the good news?"

"Your cholesterol is down to 130!"

Annual Checkup

Pa is having his annual checkup when Doc asks him, "Pa, how's your sex life these days?"

"Oh, you know," replies Pa. "The Social Security kind."

"Social Security?" asks Doc, "What do you mean by that?"

"You get a little each month, but barely enough to get by."

Wrong Impression

A patient awakens after a serious operation only to find herself in a room with all the blinds drawn. "Why are all the blinds closed?" she asks her doctor.

"Well," the surgeon responds, "They're fighting a huge fire across the street, and we didn't want you to wake up and think the operation had failed."

Big Feet

A woman goes into a bar in Texas and sees a cowboy with his feet propped up on a table. He has on the largest boots she's ever seen. The woman asks the cowboy if it's true what they say about men with big feet. The cowboy just grins. The two end up spending the night together. The next morning she gets up to leave and hands him a $100 bill.

"Thank you ma'am," he says "Ain't nobody ever paid me for my services before."

"Don't flatter yourself," the woman replies. "Take the money and buy yourself some boots that fit."

Paying Taxes

Ma and Pa drive over to Lexington to the IRS office to discuss some unpaid taxes for 2017.

The agent tells them, "We here at the IRS feel it is a great privilege to be allowed to live and work in the USA. As a citizen you have an obligation to pay taxes, and we expect you to eagerly pay them with a smile."

"Well, that's a relief," says Ma, smiling toward Pa. "We thought we were going to have to pay cash!"

Cheap Anniversary Present

Slim stops by the cosmetics store to pick up a gift for Maybelle for their anniversary. The clerk starts off showing him a bottle of perfume costing $50, but Slim keeps asking for something cheaper. She shows him a $30 bottle; then finally she pulls out a really tiny $15 bottle.

"No, I'd like to see something really cheap."

Aggravated, the clerk points to his reflection in a mirror, "That's the cheapest thing in this store."

Secret To Old Age

Former First Lady Michelle Obama is taking a drive in rural Virginia when she notices a little old man sitting in a chair on his porch. She has her driver pull over and she walks over to the man saying, "I'm an advocate for a healthy lifestyle, and I couldn't help but notice how happy you look," she says. "What's your secret for a long, happy life?"

"I smoke three packs a day, drink a case of beer, eat fatty foods, and never, ever exercise," he replies.

"Wow, that's amazing," she says, "How old are you?" "Twenty-six."

Stickeler's Puzzle

STICKELERS [sic]
 by Terry Stickels

An example of a simple anagram:

The building was of R E C E N T construction, but the cement had been of poor quality and the C E N T E R was crumbling.

The physics professor's work had been _____ by fellow scientists, journalists and even the president. Her 40 years of research was remarkable for all the discoveries she had made ... and yet, no one could know her _____. The one equation she had most wanted to solve still eluded her, and it had turned into a nightmare.

Gift of Rewards

Everybody loves rewards -- especially athletes, actors and actresses, race car drivers, lottery winners, writers, students, runners, children, inventors, songwriters, teachers, investors, astronauts, singers, parents, employees, businesses, etc.

In general, rewards range anywhere from a smile and/or a word of praise to huge sums of money and worldwide recognition. The subject of rewards has produced over 42 million sites on the internet. Rewards are used to provide motivation, morale boosting, and recognition. They are a source of great encouragement for the production of excellent works in a variety of fields.

A great source for the study of rewards is the Holy Bible. Both the Old and New Testaments exhibit the importance of good and proper behavior that pleases God. And rewards of various kinds and sizes are promised as a result of this behavior. So, the ultimate source and provider of rewards is God. Jesus explained how the use of our time, talents, energy, money and possessions would result in rewards if used in helping to build His Kingdom. The rewards would be available both here on Earth at the present time and also in the eternal paradise that waits for those willing to follow the ways of the Lord. Jesus urged us to plan for treasures in Heaven where they could never be stolen or destroyed. That advice was to help us focus on the ultimate rewards that will last for all eternity. Eternal life itself is an incredible reward! The additional rewards led the Apostle Paul to say that we can't imagine what waits for us. Thank you Jesus for rewards!
