Maudie's Naughties

Twins Town

An out of state visitor is amazed to see several pairs of twins around town. At the dollar store, he even sees one woman with three pairs of twins following her around. Unable to contain his curiosity, he says, "Goodness! Do you get twins every time?"

"Heck, no," She replies. "Most of the time we don't get anything at all."

Paying Debts

Bob and Dave are walking in downtown Lexington when a mugger assaults them with a gun and announces, "This is a stick-up. Get into that alley and then give me all your money."

As they're walking down the alley Bob fishes out his wallet and removes a few of the bills. He hands them to Dave and whispers, "Here you go, man."

Dave takes the money and looks at Bob with a puzzled expression, so Bob explains, "Don't you remember? That's the hundred bucks I owed you."

The Three Bears

It's a sunny morning in Big Forest and the Bear family is just waking up. Baby Bear goes downstairs and sits in his small chair at the table. He looks into his small bowl. It is empty!

"Who's been eating my porridge?!" he squeaks. Daddy Bear arrives at the table and sits in his big chair. He looks into his big bowl. It is also empty!

"Who's been eating my porridge?!" he roars. Mummy Bear puts her head through the serving hatch from the kitchen and screams, "Do I have to go through this routine every morning? - I haven't made your porridge yet!!"

Bearly Knighted

There once was a kingdom ruled by a giant bear named Kosmey. The only way to become a knight in Kosmey's empire was to apply for a personal interview with the bear. This had its drawbacks. If he liked your audition, you were knighted on the spot -- but if you failed, Lord Kosmey was quite likely to club your head off your shoulders with one mighty paw.

Even so, there were many applicants -- for the peasantry were poor, and if a candidate failed for knighthood, his family received, as a booby-prize, a valuable sheepdog from the Royal Kennels This consoled them, for truly it is written, "For the mourning after a terrible knight, nothing beats the dog of the bear that hit you."

Hicks and Cobbs

A man from Kentucky by the name of Hicks goes to New York and meets a girl who takes him to a party and is introducing him to some of her friends. She says, "Mr. Hicks from Kentucky, I'd like you to meet Mr. Cobbs from New York."

The New York man says, "Do you know what we do with hicks here in New York?"

"No," replies Mr. Hicks. "But, I know what we do with cobs in Kentucky."

City Slickers

Bubba and Junior were out hunting deer last fall during an early snowfall. They notice a brand new, shiny SUV parked on the road and by the footprints they can tell a couple of city slickers are out hunting too.

A while later they meet the two guys dragging a dead deer toward their vehicle. Bubba tells them that the deer would drag easier if they pulled it by the head instead of the legs since the hair lies flatter that way. He and Junior continue on up the holler.

About half an hour later Junior notices that the two city slickers are coming up behind them.

"You know it's a lot easier pulling this deer like you suggested," says one. "But since we traded ends it sure seems like we're getting further and further from the vehicle!"

More Slickers

A couple of city slickers came up Needmore Holler last week, looking for the bear that someone had spotted. They came to a fork in the road where a sign says, "Bear Left." So they turned around and went home.
