Maudie's Naughties

That's Odd

I once had a friend by the name of John Odd. He hated his last name. Said people constantly made fun of it, called he and his wife 'the odd couple', named him 'the odd man out' wherever he went, etc.

He directs his wife that upon his death he wants to be buried in an unmarked grave with a plain headstone, no name, blank, zilch. Well, upon his demise, she complies with his wishes.

However, the irony of this story is that people visiting the cemetery, seeing his grave and the blank headstone would exclaim, "Look, isn't that odd."

Let Me Tell You About My Children

Two extremists are chatting. One of them has his wallet out and is flipping through pictures. "Yeah, this is my oldest. He's a martyr. Here's my second son. He's a martyr, too."

There's a pause...

The second extremist says, wistfully, "Ah, they blow up so fast, don't they?"

Wife Wanted

A man orders an advertisement in the classifieds which says: "Wife Wanted."

The next day he receives a hundred letters. They all say the same thing: "You can have mine."

The Four Stages of Life

1. You believe in Santa Claus
2. You don't believe in Santa Claus
3. You are Santa Claus
4. You look like Santa Claus

Recovery from Surgery

A man is just waking up from anaesthesia after surgery, and his wife is sitting by his side. His eyes flutter open and he says, "You're beautiful."

Then he falls asleep again. His wife had never heard him talk like that before, so she stays by his side.

A few minutes later his eyes flutter open and he says, "You're cute."

"What happened to beautiful," asks the wife?

The man replies, "The drugs are wearing off."

Pentance

A religious young woman goes to confession. Upon entering the confessional, she says, "Forgive me, Father, for I have sinned."

The priest says, "Confess your sins and be forgiven."

"The young woman said, "Last night my boyfriend and I were passionately romantic seven times."

The priest thinks long and hard and then says, "Squeeze seven lemons into a glass and then drink the juice."

The young woman asks, "Will this cleanse me of my sins?"

The priest replies, "No, but it will wipe that smile off of your face."

Revelation

A kindergarten teacher is observing her classroom while they are drawing. She occasionally walks around to see each child's work. As she gets to one little girl who is working diligently, she asks what the drawing is.

The girl replies, "I'm drawing God."

The teacher says, "But no one knows what God looks like."

Without missing a beat, or looking up from her drawing, the girl replies, "They will in a minute."

Fortune Teller

One afternoon a man is wandering around a fairground and he happens to see a fortune teller's tent. Thinking it will be good for a laugh, the man goes inside and sits down.

"Ah..." says the woman as she gazes into her crystal ball. "I see you are the father of two children."

"That's what you think," says the man scornfully. "I'm the father of three children."

The fortune teller grins and says, "That's what you think!"

Arts Council Pricing Workshop

The Estill Arts Council is hosting its first "virtual workshop." It is free and you don't need to get out of your warm house.

When: January 19, 2021 at 6:30 p.m.

Where: Via Zoom

What: Pricing Workshop

Who: Tim Glotzbach, former director of Berea College Crafts

Cost: Free

Register on the Estill Arts Council Facebook page for the workshop

Visual and craft artists often worry that their prices are too high, thus driving away buyers, or they find them too low to cover expenses and provide sustainable compensation. This session seeks to demystify many of the questions surrounding how to price and value one's work. Artist/educator and former director of Berea College Crafts, Tim Glotzbach, discusses how to accurately price work for the market place, while insuring fair compensation for artists.

This event will be held on Zoom, please register on our Facebook event to receive invite by email. <https://www.facebook.com/events/888758981867363/>
