Local school board members to be recognized for service at January 21 board meeting

Throughout this month of January, administrators, faculty, staff, students and community members of the Estill County school district are publicly thanking the system's elected board of education members during Kentucky's observation of School Board Recognition Month.

LW Beckley, Jon Bicknell, Patty Hood, Robbie Starling and Amy Thomas are among the 854 school board members being saluted in the state's 173 local school districts. Their jobs are increasingly complex, said Allen Kennedy, president of the Kentucky School Boards Association and chairman of the Hancock County school board.

"Members of the Estill County Board of Education are responsible for overseeing a $22 million budget and for implementing policies and making decisions that are aimed at ensuring that every child in their district is successful both as a student and as a future citizen of their community," Kennedy said. "To do this, they must keep up with changes in education laws and regulations and spend hours on their own annual professional development and training."

Estill County Schools Superintendent Jeff Saylor noted much of that work takes place outside the board office.

"Because the voting, discussions and actions school board members take happen during their public meetings, we tend to forget about their other 'actions' in support of the Estill County school system and its students and their families. This includes talking to parents and others in the community, representing the district at community events, attending school activities and athletic contests, and oftentimes acting as students themselves in studying materials to prepare for their board meetings," Jeff Saylor said.

"I'm thankful to be able to work with this group of elected leaders," Mr. Saylor added, "and I would like to ask the community to express their thanks to them as well this month."

"During the January 21st, 2016 regular called school board meeting, we will recognize our board members for their service to our students, parents, staff members and the community. The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. and everyone is invited to attend."

Camp Lejeune Vets offered fresh hope

VETERANS POST by Freddy Groves

If you served at Camp Lejeune and were made ill by the toxic drinking water, there is more hope being offered. Department of Veterans Affairs Secretary Robert McDonald wants to classify certain illnesses as presumptive for service connection after seeing more reviews by the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry.

It determined that numerous petroleum products, vinyl chloride, benzene, perchloroethylene (dry cleaning fluid) and trichloroethylene (a degreaser) leaked from storage tanks from 1953 to 1987 and contaminated the drinking water. Per a VA news release, McDonald wants to create a list of presumptives for: kidney cancer, liver cancer, non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, leukemia, multiple myeloma, scleroderma, Parkinson's disease and aplastic anemia/myelodysplastic syndromes.

Reserve and National Guard personnel also would qualify for disability compensation and medical care, as well as dependency and indemnity compensation for surviving dependents. If you served at Lejeune during the specified period (Aug. 1, 1953 to Dec. 31, 1987) and have any of the illnesses listed, you're encouraged to apply for disability compensation.

Under current rules, if you served at Lejeune for more than 30 days from Jan. 1, 1957 to Dec. 31, 1987, you may be eligible to receive care (and family members may receive reimbursement for out-of-pocket medical care) for esophageal cancer, breast cancer, kidney cancer, multiple myeloma, renal toxicity, female infertility, scleroderma, non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, lung cancer, bladder cancer, leukemia, myelodysplastic syndromes, hepatic steatosis, miscarriage and neurobehavioral effects. (Note the different time span for these currently covered illnesses.)

For information on family care, go to www.clfamilymembers.fsc.va.gov. The link in the VA newsletter doesn't work, but for veteran care go to www.index.va.gov and put Camp Lejeune in the search box. To establish eligibility for benefits, call 1-877-222-8387, or www.1010ez.med.va.gov.

Note: Some of us have apparently mispronounced the Camp's name our whole lives. It's "luh-JERN."
