Ravenna gets the deed to C. VanHuss Estate

by CATHY DAWES
The Estill County Tribune

A brief meeting of the Ravenna council was held on Monday night after members of the council, employees of the city, and several friends enjoyed a wonderful Christmas dinner.

The council approved resolution #15 pertaining to the renovations on the homes within the city. Bryan Kirby, of CEDA, said that he had hope to have the homes completed by Christmas but now it looks like it will be the end of the year, if not sometime in January before the occupants are able to move back into their homes.

Kirby said that on one of the homes a very nice handicap accessibility ramp had been built onto the rear of the home but then they realized that there was no driveway on the rear of the home. He said that there is an alley that runs behind the home, therefore, a new driveway will be put in that will give the homeowner access to the alley.

City Clerk Jamie Hill said that she had been contacted by American Legal Publishing which is a company consisting of 18 attorneys that review and update ordinance books. Hill said that the current ordinance book had not been updated since back in the 80's and at that time the city received a grant to pay for the updated book. She said that she was told the cost to the city would be between five and seven thousand dollars because the city isn't eligible to receive a grant this time. She said she estimates the actual cost to the city would be around $6,000.

"I would rather pay $6,000 towards our debt," stated Councilwoman Beverly Thompson.

Councilwoman Sharon Snowden agreed and said that she felt like that since a grant was not available to the city at the time then she would have to say no as well.

Mayor Estine Tipton reported that a new central heat and air unit had been purchased for city hall. She said that the old unit had been worked on several times and that it was beyond repair. She happily reported that the new unit as well as a new computer for the clerk's office had been paid for in full out of the general fund.

Mayor Tipton also reported that the city had received the deed to the Charlie Van Huss estate. She said that she was waiting to speak to Rodney Davis to see how the city can use the money because Van Huss had designated it for certain things.

"Charlie was a smart man and he knew exactly what he wanted done with what," stated Tipton.

The next council meeting will be held on January 11, 2016 at 6 p.m. The meeting is open to the public.
