Pasture to Plate Program

more than 100 participants across the state.”

During the Pasture to Plate program, cattle at three farms—UK Research and Education Center in Princeton, UK Eden Shale Farm and the Morgan County Extension farm—will be backgrounded and finished simultaneously. “The cattle will represent a wide variety of animals showing differences in purebred, crossbred and dairy-influenced cattle,” said Jeff Lehmkuhler, UKAg beef specialist. “We’ll offer numerous field days throughout the process and finish up by evaluating the carcasses for yield and quality grades as well as a sensory taste evaluation. We will even do a grass-fed versus grain-fed evaluation.”

Kentucky farmers interested in retaining ownership of their cattle through finishing or locally marketing beef will want to attend. Organizers also encourage participation of consumers who are interested in knowing more about where their food originates and learning proper cooking methods for various cuts of beef. The program will consist of five hands-on sessions between April and October focusing on receiving, marketing, live-animal evaluation, environmental stewardship, carcass evaluation, consumer concerns and a pictorial/data summary of the entire program.

The first sessions begin at 5 p.m. local time. They will focus on receiving and are scheduled as follows: April 14th at the UK Research and Education Center, Princeton; April 19th at the Morgan County Extension farm; and April 20th at UK Eden Shale Farm in Owen County.

For more information, visit <http://www.kybeefnetwork.com>, or contact Jake Gankofskic at 859-278-0899. Pre-registration is required.

This program is funded by the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund and is a cooperative effort of the UK College of Agriculture, Food and Environment, Kentucky Beef Network, Kentucky Beef Council, Kentucky Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Forage-Animal Production Research Unit.

Eastern Redbud Fun Facts

Eastern redbuds are blooming now and what a beautiful site. Red bud trees start flowering when 4 to 6 years old. The flowers bloom in early spring before leaf-out. Flowers are often found on the trunk.

The bark of eastern redbud is brownish black and scaly. On older trees, the orangish inner bark can often be seen. Bark becomes fissured as the tree ages.

Folk healers used the bark of eastern redbud to treat diarrhea and leukemia. Native Americans used the wood of a similar species, C. occidentalis, the western redbud, to make bows.

Redbud has been called the Judas tree because Judas Iscariot, after betraying Christ, was said to have hanged himself on Cercis siliquastrum, a close relative of eastern redbud that grows in Europe and western Asia. The blooms of the tree, originally white, were said to have turned pink with shame or blood.

Parasitic wasps
effectively control aphids, scale, whiteflies, sawfly larvae, ants, leaf miners and several types of caterpillars. They parasitize the eggs of European corn borers, tomato hornworms, codling moths, cabbage loopers and imported cabbageworms. You can buy parasitic wasps to release in your garden, but first grow some Queen Anne's lace, dill, cilantro, parsley, lemon balm or fennel so they will stay nearby. - Brenda Weaver
