

Times Remembered

Tara, Steve and Colton came for a visit today, (Monday). We went to Aunt Phyllis' house to swim and then Colton went to Vacation Bible School at Calvary Baptist with me.

Time Spent With Family Is A Wonderful Thing

He finally got a day off from practicing baseball and football; yes he is already practicing football, it overlaps baseball in Scott County. My sisters say I need to move to Scott County, I spend so much time there. I would like to, but I don't want to leave my log house. I couldn't get half the house there for what I have here.

He played all-star baseball Saturday in Harrodsburg in the heat, and, of course, Nonna braved the temperatures. I can't miss my grandson's ball games. He got a home run and received a game ball for his performance Saturday. They won all their games on Saturday, but lost on Sunday. I believe they have one more tournament before school starts.

We grilled hamburgers and hot dogs and Colton had a great time swimming with my nephew's friends, Micah and Logan. They taught him how to dive; well almost, but he did good considering it was his first time trying to learn to dive. He really enjoyed swimming with two high school football players all afternoon.

After swimming we returned home and got ready for bible school. The theme for this year is "Cave Quest," Jesus is the light. It's a five day session with powerful lessons from Jesus walking on the water to his Ascension, marking the end of his earthly ministry, and second, it marked the beginning of the Holy Spirit's ministry through each one of us.

The choir loft and podium of the church was constructed to look like a cave. Glow in the dark lights, flicker lights and colorful flashlights were used to signify the light of Jesus. With Jesus in our heart we do not have to be afraid no matter where we are; in a cave or wherever.

"Do not fear or be dismayed . . . for the Lord is with you." 2 Chronicles 20:17.

Colton really enjoyed himself; especially the lessons, the recreation, the food and the colorful decorations. We had a great day! Time spent with family is a wonderful thing. You give your time to your children and grandchildren . . . they are great!

Maudie's Naughties

Something Under The Bed

Jerry goes to a psychiatrist. "Doc," he says, "Every time I get into bed, I think there's somebody under it. I'm going crazy!"

Just put yourself in my hands for one year," says the shrink. "Come to me three times a week, and I'll cure your fears."

Six months later the doctor meets Jerry on the street. "Why didn't you ever come to see me again?" asks the psychiatrist.

"$100 a visit? A bartender cured me for $10. He told me to cut the legs off the bed! Ain't nobody under there now!!!"

Needing Directions

Junior and Howard are hanging around downtown when they are approached by a man who asks, "Gentlemen, can you tell me where the post office is?"

Howard answers, "Sure, just go straight down the street a couple of blocks and turn to your right."

The man thanks them kindly and then adds, "I'm the new pastor in town, and I'd like for you to come to church on Sunday. I'll show you how to get to Heaven."

Junior replies with a chuckle, "Awww, come on, now; you didn't even know the way to the post office!"

Proud Family Tradition

The Smiths are proud of their family tradition. Their ancestors came to America on the Mayflower and included Senators and Wall Street wizards. They decide to compile a family history, a legacy for their children and grandchildren, so they hire a fine author. The only problem is great-uncle George, who was executed in the electric chair. The author says he can handle the story tactfully. The book reads, "Great-uncle George occupied a chair of applied electronics at an important government institution, was attached to his position by the strongest of ties, and his death came as a great shock."

Medical Diagnosis

Two students are chatting in the hallway at medical school when they notice an elderly professor walking down the hallway toward them. He is walking slowly with his legs spread apart and stiff-legged. As he gets closer to them, the students discuss a possible diagnosis for his condition. The professor notices they have taken an interest in him and decides to see what they have come up with.

One student says, "I'm sure it's Peltry Syndrome which causes people to walk just like that."

The other student says, "You surely must have Zovitzki Syndrome which makes one walk slowly with legs apart, just like we learned in class."

"Well, I guess all three of us were very wrong," replies the professor. "I thought I was just passing gas!"

Dumbest Kid In The World

A young boy walks into a country store where several loafers are hanging out. One loafer whispers to a customer, "This is the dumbest kid in the world. Watch while I prove it to you." He puts a dollar bill in one hand and two quarters in the other, then calls the boy over and asks, "Which do you want, son?"

The boy takes the quarters and walks away. "What did I tell you?" says the loafer. "That kid never learns!"

As the customer is leaving, he notices the young boy buying some candy with the two quarters and says to the boy, "Hey, Why did you take the quarters instead of the dollar bill?"

"Because the day I take the dollar, the game's over!"

Safety Warning for Pokémon Go Players

Jackson Energy and other utilities are reminding players of Pokémon Go to stay away from electric substations, power plants and other electric equipment. The new smartphone-based augmented reality game sends players to real world places to "catch" Pokémon.

Pokémon turn up everywhere—from grocery stores to hospitals. But they're also appearing at electric substations, drawing players into dangerous situations.

"Electric utilities cannot control where the Pokémon appear, and players should make sure they catch their Pokémon from a safe distance," said Jackson Energy Safety Director Brandon Long. "Any game or activity that distracts people from the possible dangers around them and potentially brings them in proximity to our electric equipment and lines is a major concern for all us."

Remember these important electrical safety tips from Jackson Energy as you try to #CatchEmAll:

- Never touch electric equipment, including transformers and power lines.
- Never touch a downed power line. Assume all lines are energized and dangerous.
- Never climb utility poles.
- Never enter an electric substation.

Estill Gets Aid For Old Landing Road Slip

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet announced last week that the Estill County Fiscal Court will receive $66,900 in County Road Aid emergency funds. These funds will be used for slip repairs on Old Landing Road (CR 1111), making it safer for cars, school buses and other vehicles that rely upon this highway.

"The Bevin administration is committed to the Cabinet's mission of providing a safe, reliable transportation network for all Kentuckians," said Transportation Secretary Greg Thomas. "These emergency funds will help local governments repair and restore damaged infrastructure throughout their communities."

The Estill County Fiscal Court is responsible for administering the work.

Suffering for Righteousness (Romans 6:15-23)

¹⁴But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled; ¹⁵But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear: ¹⁶Having a good conscience; that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evildoers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ. ¹⁷For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, than for evil doing.
