Estill County 4-H Teen Conference

Left to right, front: Summer Evans, Elisabeth Bishop. Back: Brennan Rogers, Jake Evans, Matt Hager and Hunter Walters.

Six teens from the Estill County 4-H Youth Development Program participated in the 2017 Teen Conference held at the University of Kentucky on June 12-15. The teens spent most of their time attending workshops and tracks where they expanded their knowledge on topics they already knew about while learning about new topics as well. In the evenings they had the opportunity to attend two dances: one casual dance at the beginning of the week and one semi-formal dance at the end of the week.

Tuesday night was spent mingling and making friends with other teens from within Estill County's District, district four, at Teen Conference's District Night Out. The Estill 4-H program then said "goodnight," rather than goodbye to two seniors, Jake Evans and Matt Hager, at the conclusion of the conference. If your teens, grades 9-12, are interested in attending the 2018 Teen Conference call the Estill County Extension Office at 606-723-4557.

Style Engineering Camp - Fashion Through Science

Cheyenne Lamb, Raynna Goosey, McKenna Barnes and Kayla Barnes

Estill County 4-H held a three day Style Engineering Camp on June 20 - 22. Four students participated in workshops where they learned about different types of fabrics, creating 3D designs, hand sewing, and using sewing machines. The main point of the camp was to show young designers the importance and necessity of incorporating science in fashion design. The youth had the opportunity to create "Gremlin" pins, fabric patterns, and homemade wallet clutches. We finished the week off by creating an outfit for an outer space pop-star that would help protect her from the elements and terrain in space.

Our next camp will be the Cooking Camp on July 12 - 13 at the Extension Office. If you are interested in the Cooking Camp you can call the Extension Office at 606-723-4557. Remember to sign up in advance in order to reserve a spot, as the camp will cap at 10 youth!
