Narrow Road

A man is driving up a steep, narrow mountain road. A woman is driving down the same road. As they pass each other, the woman leans out of the window and yells "Pig!!"

The man leans out of his window and replies, "Cow!!"

They each continue on their way, and as the man rounds the next curve, he crashes into a pig in the middle of the road.

If only men would listen . . .

"9-1-1 Operator:"

"Yes," replies the voice of an elderly, single woman, "Please send the fire department, quickly!"

"Is your house on fire?"

"No, my house is not on fire. There are two men on a step-ladder trying to climb up to my upstairs bedroom window."

"Then you want me to dispatch the police, right?"

"No, I want the fire department to bring a longer ladder."

Well Organized

Two women meet for the first time since graduating from high school. One asks the other, "You were always so organized in school. Did you manage to live a well planned life?"

"Yes," her friend replies. "My first marriage was to a millionaire; my second marriage was to an actor; my third marriage was to a preacher; and now I'm married to an undertaker."

"Four marriages!?" says the friend. "That doesn't sound very well organized."

"Sure it does!" the woman replies. "One for the money, two for the show, three to get ready, and four to go."

Step Aside

Lifelong enemies Clem and Jake are in a country market when they meet face to face in an aisle that is too narrow for them to pass. Jake pulls himself up to his full height and boasts, "I never make way for a fool!"

"Nor do I," says Clem. "But I'll make an exception for you."

Three Wishes

Bubba is walking through the woods one day when he trips over a half buried kerosene lantern. He cleans it off to take it home when suddenly a redneck trucker appears. (What did you expect, a genie?)

The redneck trucker thanks him for releasing him from being a prisoner in the lantern and offers him three wishes.

Bubba thinks on it awhile and decides he wants some potion that will keep him healthy the rest of his life, a large diamond for his wife, and a dinner date with a famous movie star.

"These will all shortly be granted," says the redneck trucker.

The doorbell wakes Bubba up the next morning with its constant ringing. He opens the door to find a delivery man with 500 gallons of chicken soup, a crew to build his wife a baseball stadium, and Mr. T who is taking Bubba on a dinner date.

Burning Bush

While passing through an airport on a trip to Israel, Former President Bush notices a man with long hair, wearing a white robe and sandals, and holding a staff. Bush walks up to the man and asks, "Aren't you Moses?"

The man never answers but just keeps staring straight ahead. Again the Former President says, "Moses!" in a loud voice.

The man just keeps staring ahead, never answering the Former President. Bush pulls a Secret Service agent aside and pointing to the robed man asks him, "Doesn't that man look like Moses to you?" The Secret Service agent agrees.

"Well," says the Former President, "Every time I say his name he just keeps staring straight ahead and refuses to speak."

The Secret Service agent goes up to the man in the white robe and whispers, "You look just like Moses. Are you Moses?"

The man leans over and whispers back, "Yes, I am Moses."

"Well, why didn't you answer the Former President when he spoke to you?"

"The last time I talked to a bush," says Moses. "I ended up leading my people to the deserts of the Middle East where we wandered about aimlessly for 40 years."

Follow-Up on Estill School Bus Complaint

Mr. Saylor,

If you feel this does not disclose personal information, I ask that you share with school board members, board attorney, and possibly the two media outlets that were in attendance at last night's board meeting. I think this information will clear up what was stated at the meeting concerning the safety of a particular student being let off of one of the district's buses.

This is a follow-up to the concern that was voiced at last night's board meeting. A concerned grandmother stated that her young grandson (7 yrs old) has been let off the bus on Broadway and had to walk six blocks to get home. I too was concerned and proceeded to talk to bus drivers from that area, pull bus CCTV recordings, and call the concerned guardian to find facts about this particular situation.

It was determined this supposedly took place Tuesday, October, 16, 2018 on the afternoon route (through conversation with the concerned grandmother.) Once that was determined, I was able to find out that the younger child has an older sibling (16 yrs old) that lives in the same household. Both students were dropped off at the Irvine Nazarene Church at 280 Broadway - where we have been instructed to do so. A large group of students gather at this stop each day - anywhere from 12-20 students. The concerned grandmother was not at the stop that afternoon. She stated she was at a doctor's appointment. She told me that she has instructed her younger child to go with another designated parent who picks up her child at the same stop. However, that day she was not there either. My question at that point was why did the older sibling not take care of the younger child at that point? She stated that the older child proceeded to walk up Plum Street toward his house rather than going up North Madison (where the house is actually located.)

The concerned grandmother then tells me that she was in a car in front of IMU at 238 Broadway and could see the school bus at her children's regular stop. She says that when she got in front of the Nazarene Church she did not see the younger child and turned left onto Plum Street (I assume she saw the older boy waling on Plum.) She says she came back toward Broadway looking for the younger child and saw him going up North Madison Avenue. There are three pieces of property that the child would have walked in front of in order to get to the corner of North Madison. At that point, she made contact with her younger grandson. Never did the child walk a distance of six blocks.

At the school board meeting she stated that her child had been let off the bus six blocks from her house and that he had to walk that distance to get home. This was clarified in the above mentioned information. I told her that six blocks would be the approximate distance from the Estill County Courthouse to South Plum Street. I explained to her that she needs to be at the bus stop each afternoon. I also stated that for her protection, she needed to talk to her 16 yr old grandson and have the understanding that he needs to be responsible for helping get the younger student home in her absence. I have instructed the bus driver to have the two siblings sit together on the afternoon route so that future confusion can be avoided. I have also instructed the driver and assistant that if the older sibling is not on the bus, they must do hand-to-hand delivery to the grandmother if the older sibling does not ride the bus in the afternoon. If this cannot be carried out, they have been instructed to return the child to his school.
