

Beattyville television station WLJC-TV is offering new, local newscast at 9:00 p.m.

ABC 36 in Lexington and WLJC-TV in Beattyville, Kentucky, are excited to announce a partnership to bring you 'The News at Nine' on WLJC-TV Monday-Friday at 9:00 p.m.

'The News at Nine' brings you the latest local news, weather and sports and is the only evening newscast serving both central and eastern Kentucky. With the 'News at Nine' there will no longer be a need to wait until 11:00 p.m. to get the latest local news!

Emmy Award winning journalist Tom Kenny will serve as the lead anchor along with Chief Meteorologist Jason Myers and Sports Director Alex Risen.

Jonathan Drake, WLJC-TV General Manager, said "We couldn't be more excited about our partnership with ABC 36 WTVQ! The "News at Nine" is a great news option for hard working people and the elderly who have to go to bed early and can't stay up until eleven."

With dedicated Eastern Kentucky field reporters along with all the resources from ABC 36 and WLJC-TV, we are sure that 'The News at Nine' will be a win for your family.

Broadcasting from Beattyville over-the-air on channel 65.1, WLJC-TV has a coverage area that serves more than 1.3 million people in central and eastern Kentucky, as well as parts of southwest West Virginia, Virginia, and northeast Tennessee. WLJC-TV is channel 65 on DirecTV and Dish Network, and is carried on all local cable systems.

Originally licensed as a single religious channel, WLJC-TV now offers six digital channels including the original channel. Antenna viewers in central and eastern Kentucky can view additional programs from LIGHTtv, Antenna, GETtv, this, and COZI networks.

WLJC-TV is owned by The Hour of Harvest, Inc. which also owns two Christian radio stations, Air 1 outlet WLJC-FM and K-LOVE outlet WEBF, which was originally licensed in Booneville by Owsley County Schools.

The original television station first signed on the air on October 18, 1982 and claims to be the oldest Christian television station in Kentucky.

Sniffing coon hunter's toes not best way to determine where he lives

America's Heartland
Roger Alford
RogerAlford1@GMail.Com

I heard a joke the other day about a surly game warden who walked up a coon hunter as he sat on his tailgate listening to his hounds.

"Looks like you've had a good night," the game warden said, picking up one of three coons stacked in the bed of the pickup. The game warden sniffed one of the coon's feet and said: "This is a Mississippi coon; do you have a Mississippi hunting license?"

The coon hunter pulled a Mississippi license out of his pocket and handed it to the game warden. Obviously flustered, the game warden picked up a second coon, sniffed its foot and said angrily: "This coon is from Arkansas; do you have an Arkansas hunting license?"

The coon hunter reached in his pocket and pulled out an Arkansas license.

The game warden then picked up the third coon, sniffed its foot and declared it was from Tennessee. "You got a Tennessee hunting license?"

The coon hunter reached in his pocket and pulled out a Tennessee license.

Miffed that he hadn't found cause to write a ticket, the game warden growled: "You've got all these licenses, where are you from anyway?"

The hunter slipped off his sweaty Muck boot and lifted his stinky foot toward the game warden, saying: "You're the expert; you tell me."

It turns out foot odor is an issue for most people at some time or other, especially in the heat of summer. It seems sweat and cotton socks laced up together inside shoes create the perfect breeding ground for the bacteria that causes the foul smell. While Jesus was here on earth, the custom of the day was for servants to wash the feet of visitors as they walked into homes. It would have been a very humbling task.

So, imagine the surprise of the disciples the day that Jesus took a pot of water and a towel and began washing the disciples' feet. In that act, Jesus reveals the kind of character He wants all Christians to have. He wants it to be second nature for Christians to have a strong desire to serve others and to put others first.

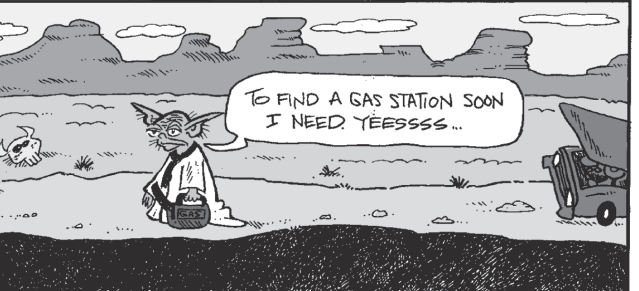

Jesus told them: "I have given you an example that you should do just as I have done" (John 13:15). It was a humble task with a profound meaning. By performing it, Jesus made it clear that he doesn't ask his followers to do anything he isn't willing to do himself. That's the mark a great leader.

The game warden in that old joke doesn't seem to live up to the example Jesus' set for us. But that coon hunter's sweaty toes might have awakened him.
