Golf Outing

Laughterrangoutwhen someone yelled, "FORE," at Gibson Bay Golf Course in Richmond on Saturday morning when a golfer hit the golf ball to the wrong green! Have you ever laughed so hard that your insides hurt? I did Saturday morning when a total of twenty-one brave people, six women and fifteen men participated in a golf tournament sponsored by the Brotherhood of Calvary Baptist Church. All proceeds are to be used for children to attend church camp next summer.

The alternating shot tournament teams consisted of 7 teams, each having 3 players, one experienced golfer, one golfer not so experienced and another one who had never held a golf club. The team with the lowest score would win.

Our team consisted of Tyler Martin, the most experienced golfer and myself who had played some golf, plus Debbie King who never had touched a golf club before. Tyler was first up and hit the ball hard and long; we finally found it near the fence. I'm up second and put it almost on the green, but not quite close enough, then Debbie hit a shot to put the ball a little further. Tyler hits again onto the green but not in the hole. We took a 5 on that hole; but a double bogey was maximum that we could hit. Needless, to say there was only 1 par in the entire tournament.

The rain held off and we were doing pretty good; seems my partners got better and I got worse. I did hit two on the green and Debbie was able to putt those two in the hole to give us two 4's on a couple of greens that helped our score.

On the 9th and final hole Tyler had to hit the ball across the creek to the green; Oh! He's got some power, one time he hit it so far that sent the ball to the highway and lost the ball. Anyway, he hit the last shot across the creek into the thick grass on the hillside. I'm up next and it is my job to hit the ball out of the thick trap. You would have thought I was digging a hole instead of trying to hit the ball! I did terrible but I did get it out of the thick grass to advance the ball a little. Debbie hits next and the ball took a bath in the water. We took a 5 and called it quits. We finished with a score of 42. Remember par for the tournament was 27.

Our kids, Tara, Steve and Colton participated on a team and got a par on hole 8. They finished with a score of 41. Colton likes golf, but he's impatient, like his Nonna and if he doesn't do well he doesn't want to play. We told him you have to have fun when playing golf. It's a mind game.

We had two other contests: closest to the hole, a chip shot about 10 yards, won by Josh England and kid's winner was Emma Taylor. We also had "Punk's Punt," for the same distance of 10 yards, named in memory of James "Punk" Martin II. There wasn't a winner in that category.

The winners in the alternating shot contest were the team of Todd Blevins, associate pastor, Jantzen Day and Kordel Day, great nephews of Bob and Betty Young, with a score of 38. See team photo at right.

This event was a time of fun and fellowship that benefitted a worthy cause. Thanks to all that played and to Bob for organizing the event and a special thanks to Peggy Martin for her assistance. To God Be the Glory!

Most dangerous sharks aren't the ones that swim in the ocean

America's Heartland

Roger Alford

A wealthy man on the other side of the state enjoyed inviting people to his house to show off the shark he kept in his salt-water swimming pool on his lavish estate.

When people were gathered around the pool, the wealthy man would make an offer: "If any of you will swim across the pool, I'll give you $500,000, a brand new home, and a fancy sports car."

As soon as he made the offer on one particular occasion, there was a splash, and an overweight middle-aged fellow swam across the pool as fast as fast as he could go with the shark snapping at his heels. He managed to get out of the water on the other side before being ripped to pieces.

The wealthy man was impressed, and congratulated the fellow, telling him he was the first person ever to accept this challenge.

"Now what would you like first?" the wealthy man asked. "The money? The house? The sports car?"

"The first thing I want," the man said, "is the name of the person who pushed me into that pool."

All of us have had acquaintances who would try to push us into things. Our parents likely warned us that we'd encounter such people, and that we shouldn't allow ourselves to be manipulated by them.

It's hard to imagine, but the same kind of activity can happen in churches. That's why the Bible admonishes Christian leaders to be careful not to be the kind of person who bullies others into doing things.

"Shepherd the flock of God that is among you, exercising oversight, not under compulsion, but willingly, as God would have you; not for shameful gain, but eagerly, not domineering over those in your charge, but being examples to the flock" (1 Peter 5:1-3).

The Apostle John once had a run in with a fellow who embodied the opposite of that description of a godly church leader. Here's what John said:

"I wrote unto the church, but Diotrophes, who loves to have the preeminence among them, received us not. Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deed which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words, and not content therewith, neither does he himself receive the brethren, and forbids them that would, and casts them out of the church" (3 John 9-10).

Can you imagine someone with the audacity to tell the great Apostle John and other early church leaders who walked alongside Jesus during his earthly ministry that they weren't good enough to preach in his pulpit?

Diotrophes seems to have been the kind of person who might shove someone into a pool with a man-eating shark. Of course, some of the fellows I go to church with might be tempted to push a fellow like him in.
