Proper Ginseng Hunting Techniques

Kentucky Ginseng Program

Harvest Date Start . . . . . September 1

Can sell green ginseng . September 1

Can sell dry ginseng . . September 15

Ginseng Program Summary

- ⇒ Ginseng harvest season is from September 1 - December 1, each calendar year
- ⇒ Buying season for green ginseng starts September 1 each calendar year
- ⇒ Buying season for dry ginseng is from September 15 - March 31 each calendar year
- ⇒ Dealer licenses are valid annually from September 1 - August 31 and cost $75.00 for Kentucky residents and $150.00 for non-residents.
- ⇒ Harvesters can declare their ginseng as wild, wild simulated, woodsgrown or cultivated.
- ⇒ All fees collected are deposited specifically for the ginseng program.
- ⇒ The regulation outlines violations and penalties, which is available to download at <http://www.kyagr.com/marketing/ginseng>

Ginseng Age

The minimum age of harvest by law is 5 years and 3 prongs. However, the market for ginseng prefers roots 10 years old and older.

Underage Root

Not only is underage root illegal to harvest, it's really not worth anything. In this picture are 16 young roots harvested before maturity. These 16 roots shown below weigh less than ONE whole ginseng root of marketable age. If young plants come up when digging a larger root, plant them back into the same spot and leave them for your children and grandchildren to harvest.

GOOD STEWARDSHIP CHECKLIST
When harvesting American Ginseng, make sure you follow all of these good stewardship practices.

- Get permission to harvest.
- Only harvest plants that have 3 prongs or are at least 5 years of age.
- Only dig plants with red berries
- Plant berries within fifty feet of where you dug the root with your finger in ¾ to 1 inch of soil.
- Leave some mature plants for the future.
- If young plants come up when digging a larger root, plant them back into the same spot.
