Maudie's Naughties

Diagnosis of Historical

The psychology instructor has just finished a lecture on mental health and is giving an oral test. Speaking specifically about manic depression, she asks, "How would you diagnose a patient who walks back and forth screaming at the top of his lungs one minute, then sits down weeping uncontrollably the next?"

A young man in the rear raises his hand and answers, "He's probably a football coach"

Chickens

Pa sends Junior to a neighbor's farm down the road to buy some chickens, but Junior drops the crate on the way home and the chickens go scurrying off in every direction. He finally makes it back home just before dark and Pa meets him at the gate.

"What took you so long, boy?" says Pa. "I had to milk all the cows by myself."

"I dropped the crate," admits Junior. "But I ran all over the neighborhood and managed to find all twelve of them."

"That's pretty good," says Pa. "Considering you left the neighbors' with only seven."

Four Bones

The body of any organization has four bones: Wish bones, who spend all their time wishing someone else will do all the work; Jaw Bones, who do all the talking and very little else; Knuckle Bones, who knock everything that everybody else tries to do; and Back Bones, who get under the load and do all the work.

Memorial Stone

A woman is going up and down Needmore Hollow asking for money to pay for her late husband's funeral. "I thought he left enough for a funeral and a stone," says Ma.

"He thought he did," says the woman. "But after I bought the stone, I didn't have enough left for the funeral."

"What kind of stone did you buy?" asks Ma.

"Three carats!"

Does It Exist?

An eccentric philosophy professor gives a one question final exam after a semester dealing with a broad array of topics. Leaning against his chair, he says "Using everything we have learned this semester, prove that this chair does not exist."

Fingers fly, erasers erase, notebooks are filled in furious fashion. Some students write over 30 pages in one hour, attempting to refute the existence of the chair. One member of the class however, is up and finished in less than a minute.

He writes, "What chair?"

Military Defense

During a practical exercise at a military police base the instructor is giving the class instruction in unarmed self-defense. After he presents a number of different situations in which they might find themselves, he asks a student, "What steps would you take if someone were coming at you with a large, sharp knife?"

The student replies, "BIG ones."

Old Bones

A scientist and his wife are touring the museum at Big Bone Lick State Park and the man decides to test a janitor who works there by asking how old the bones of a certain mammoth displayed are.

"Three million seven years, six months and seven days," replies the janitor without hesitation.

"That's an awfully exact number," says the scientist. "Just exactly how do you know their age so precisely?"

"Well," replies the janitor. "I've been working here seven years, six months and seven days, and they were three million years old when I started."

Just Rewards

A woman is arrested for shoplifting. When she goes before the judge he asks her, "What did you steal?" She replies, "A bracelet."

The judge asks her why she had stolen it, and she replies that she thought it was pretty.

The judge then asks her how many stones were in the bracelet. She replies, "6."

The judge says, "Then I'll give you 6 months in jail." Suddenly her husband stands up in the courtroom and says, "She stole a 27-stone necklace, too!"
